Reading a transfer quote with its payment method

02 / 17 NOV 2026

Start with the unit

When changing Japanese yen into Myanmar kyat, look at how many kyat correspond to one yen. Reference quotes differ for cash pickup, a bank account and an electronic wallet. Start with the method the recipient can actually use.

Reference quotes checked on 17 November

Kyodai showed 24.9300 kyat per yen for cash pickup, 24.9580 for account deposit and 24.9895 for an electronic wallet. Its displayed timestamp was 2026/11/17 12:17:17, with no time zone stated. We retrieved it at about 09:47 Myanmar time that day. This updates the previous issue's observation from the morning of the 16th.

Terms used here

MMK means Myanmar kyat, JPY Japanese yen and USD US dollars. An electronic wallet lets a person receive and hold money through an app or similar service. A reference quote is a guide: fees and applicable terms also affect the final amount received.

Read central-bank figures as a separate series

The Central Bank of Myanmar (CBM) display dated 16 November showed a Reference Rate of 2,100.00 kyat per US dollar and a Market Trading Rate of 3,660.00. For 100 yen, the figures were 1,316.41 and 2,294.31 kyat respectively. Match the unit and type before comparing them with a transfer provider's per-yen quote. These CBM figures do not establish a person's transfer terms.

Check the final amount before sending

For a family transfer or a small payment, compare the same amount, receipt method and observation time. Before use, check Kyodai's applicable rate, fee, final receipt amount and destination restrictions. We did not test a transfer. Market Rate Plus was dated 14 November, so we have not used it as a current or previous-day quote.

Reading share volume and trading value

02 / 17 NOV 2026

Three numbers to understand

The Yangon Stock Exchange (YSX) is a market for trading shares. Trading volume counts shares, trading value measures money exchanged, and an index summarises price movements. A day with more shares traded does not necessarily have a higher trading value.

The display for 13:00 on 16 November

The Main Board recorded 4,804 shares and 36,850,100 kyat. The Pre Listing Board recorded 6,810 shares and 36,697,300 kyat. The Main Board's MYANPIX index was 899.39. This updates the observation date from the 13th used in the previous issue. The totals cover continuous trading and block trading, which is a negotiated large trade.

A useful distinction

The Main Board and Pre Listing Board are separate market segments. Check their company coverage and trading conditions. An index level is neither a share purchase price nor an expected investment return.

A starting point for company research

Market figures can be a starting point for understanding local companies. Our editorial suggestion is to read financial reports and business descriptions alongside trading value. Shares with limited trading may not be available at the price or time you want. Before considering an investment, check YSX disclosures, foreign-order acceptance and your broker's fees and settlement terms. This issue does not recommend buying any particular share.

Understanding who a housing offer is for

04 / 17 NOV 2026

Housing loans and application readiness

A housing loan finances a home purchase and is repaid under agreed terms. Before focusing on the number of apartments, check who can apply and which costs are involved. The report discussed here concerns people who had already built up qualifying housing savings at CHID Bank.

Reported eligibility and deadline

Myanmar Digital News reported on 13 November that 200 apartments would be sold through a low-interest loan scheme. It identified 2,496 eligible people with at least three million kyat in CHID Bank housing savings as of June 2026. The article refers to an announcement of 12 October; this is not a scheme launched on 17 November. It gives a registration deadline of 15:30 on 20 November, without specifying the time zone.

What the savings figure means

Three million kyat is the reported savings requirement. It is not the apartment price or the total down payment. The description “low interest” does not establish an interest rate or repayment period.

A way to understand housing needs

For Japanese businesses and individuals, this offers context on how savings and finance relate to local home purchases. That is an editorial interpretation, not evidence of an offer to foreign buyers or investment returns. We have not confirmed prices, interest rates, ownership rights or foreign eligibility. Start a business assessment by checking those details in official CHID Bank and Department of Urban and Housing Development (DUHD) materials.

Before applying

The report directs eligible applicants to the DUHD Sale Housing Facebook page’s Messenger. Confirm the eligibility list, authentic contact, required documents and local deadline with DUHD and the bank before proceeding. We have not independently checked the full original notice or on-the-ground registration.

Using the weather outlook to plan travel and deliveries

09 / 17 NOV 2026

Weather at sea connects to daily plans

A cyclone is a low-pressure weather system that develops over tropical seas. Even with its centre far away, rainfall and sea conditions can matter for travel and deliveries. Here we read Myanmar's Department of Meteorology and Hydrology (DMH) bulletin 04/2026, issued at 07:00 on 17 November, using observations at 05:30 Myanmar time that day.

What this bulletin says

DMH identifies AKVAN as a cyclone in the Bay of Bengal and assigns yellow status because it is not currently heading towards Myanmar. It also forecasts thunderstorms in parts of the country, including Yangon, from the morning of the 17th through the 20th. Along the coast and offshore, it forecasts waves of 8–10 feet and winds up to 30 miles per hour during squalls. These are forecasts, not local observations or cancellation notices.

Background note

Read the yellow status alongside the separate rain and wave guidance. Forecasts can change with new observations, so keep the bulletin's issue time in view.

What to check when planning

Our editorial suggestion is to check the operator's latest guidance for sea transport or coastal visits and allow time around handovers. DMH also calls for care over flooding and landslides. Check local guidance near rivers and slopes. Before departure, compare the latest DMH bulletin, airline or vessel operating information and the recipient's ability to accept deliveries. We made no individual transport enquiries or field visits.

Reading a crop plan: the farming season

10 / 17 NOV 2026

First, what is a crop plan?

A crop plan sets out what farmers intend to grow and over how much land. Read area separately from harvest volume. Farming connects seasonal work, from preparing seeds and fertiliser to transporting the harvested crop.

The update

Myanmar Digital News reported on 16 November that Shwetaung Township planned 66,617 acres of summer paddy and winter crops combined. This is planned area, separate from land already planted or crops already harvested.

A useful term

[Note] An acre measures land area. The crop, weather and water supply affect output even on the same area. Area alone cannot establish revenue or profit.

Connecting the news to business

Editorial perspective: a planting plan is a starting point for exploring inputs, collection, storage and processing. For a specific project, check actual area by crop, harvest dates, buyers and transport routes. The report itself is not an order or an invitation to invest.

Food-processing skills for local livelihoods

05 / 17 NOV 2026

First, what is food processing?

Food processing turns ingredients into products that may be easier to use or store. Alongside selling raw produce, producers can explore a different product through processing and packaging.

The update

Myanmar Digital News reported on 16 November that value-added food-processing training opened on 15 November in Kyunsu Township, Tanintharyi Region. The five-day course has 15 female trainees and is presented as skills training for local livelihoods.

A useful term

[Note] Value added is the extra value from processing or usefulness. A higher selling price does not necessarily mean an equal rise in profit when ingredients, packaging and transport cost more.

From learning to a product

Editorial perspective: training can support the people behind small businesses. Product planning becomes clearer when hygiene, shelf life, labelling, customers and costs are checked. This report announces the course opening; later sales and income gains remain to be confirmed.

Earthquake research and everyday preparedness

05 / 17 NOV 2026

First, research and preparedness

Earthquake research helps explain ground movement and local conditions. Turning that knowledge into practical preparation, such as building checks and evacuation planning, is also important work. This story highlights efforts to bring scientific knowledge to communities.

The update

Reports dated 16 November say Myanmar seismologist Daw Hla Hla Aung received the 2026 ASEAN Prize in Manila on 15 November. The recognition honours her work on earthquake preparedness and community resilience.

A useful distinction

[Note] Resilience involves preparing for a disaster, limiting harm and restoring daily life. This award recognises a body of work; it neither certifies an individual building nor predicts the date of an earthquake.

For homes and workplaces

Editorial perspective: this is a chance to learn about Myanmar's expertise and community learning. When considering a home or workplace, professional building checks, evacuation routes and staff communication plans help turn the news into practical preparation.

Livestock businesses: water and roads

10 / 17 NOV 2026

First, what supports livestock farming?

Livestock farming depends on more than the farm buildings. Water, feed, hygiene and roads for moving products all matter. Looking at these surrounding conditions helps explain how a local industry works.

The update

Myanmar Digital News reported on 16 November that a meeting with businesses took place on 15 November at Shan Yoma Livestock Zone (2) in Taunggyi Township. Expansion and job creation were encouraged, alongside inspections of water facilities, poultry farms and an access road.

A useful distinction

[Note] A livestock zone is an area where livestock businesses are concentrated. This report covers a meeting and inspections, rather than an official offer of plots, contract terms or subsidy eligibility.

A starting point for business research

Editorial perspective: supporting work includes feed, equipment maintenance, storage and delivery. For a specific discussion, check water supply, hygiene, road access, buyers and payment terms. The meeting alone does not establish orders or expected profit.

ASEAN economic cooperation in practical terms

01 / 17 NOV 2026

First, what is an economic community?

ASEAN members cooperate across borders on trade, investment and digital development. AEC means ASEAN Economic Community, the economic framework for that cooperation. Meeting reports are a starting point for following when and how measures for businesses become concrete.

The update

A report dated 16 November says a Myanmar delegation attended the 28th AEC Council in Manila on 15 November. Discussions covered the regional economic outlook, digital development, sustainability and the 2026–2030 strategic plan.

Separate discussion from implementation

[Note] A strategic plan sets a direction for future work. Attendance or discussion alone does not immediately change tariffs, permits or remittance procedures. This economic meeting is distinct from the previous issue's report on political representation at meetings.

A practical view for Japanese businesses

Editorial perspective: choose one area relevant to your product or service and follow its specific announcements. Logistics may involve customs and transport; digital businesses may involve payments and data handling. Confirm effective dates and covered activities before applying an announcement to a project.

Rice exports and reserves: two different roles

09 / 17 NOV 2026

First, exports versus reserves

Exports are goods sold overseas. Reserves are stocks kept for use when needed. Separating overseas sales from preparation for domestic needs makes the role of warehouses and inventory management clearer.

The update

Myanmar Digital News reported on 12 November that a coordination meeting on rice exports and national reserves took place in Yangon on 11 November. Topics included online warehouse registration, accurate stock information and public-private reserve arrangements.

A useful term

[Note] MyRO stands for Myanmar Rice Online and appears here in relation to warehouse registration. A meeting's direction is separate from a new law or registration deadline. This report alone does not establish a new obligation or deadline.

Looking at businesses around rice

Editorial perspective: rice trading also depends on quality checks, storage, inventory records and delivery. Check the rice type, quality terms, storage, handover and payment conditions for a specific business. This meeting report does not provide a current rice price or a confirmed increase in exports.
